

HELSINGIN YLIOPISTO
HELSINGFORS UNIVERSITET
UNIVERSITY OF HELSINKI

Public Lecture

Old and New Nationalisms and Democracy in Europe

by Professor Hans-Jürgen Puhle

Goethe Universität Frankfurt am Main

Friday 12 December 10–12 a.m.

Faculty of Social Sciences meeting room (1055)

Unioninkatu 37, Helsinki

Welcome!

Hans-Jürgen Puhle is a Professor of Political Science and the Director of the Center for North American Studies (ZENAF) at the Goethe Universität Frankfurt am Main. During his 40-year-long carrier in the fields of History and Political Science, he has published widely on the comparative social and political history of the Western world, problems of modernization, comparative politics and political theory, state functions in welfare capitalism, political parties, pressure groups and social movements, nationalism and regionalism, regime transformation and problems of democratic consolidation. His latest books include Democracy, Intermediation and Voting on Four Continents (ed. with R. Gunther and J.R. Montero; Oxford 2007) and Defekte Demokratie (2 vols. with W. Merkel et al.; Wiesbaden 2003 and 2006).

Department of Sociology
Department of Political Science
Centre for Research on Ethnic Relations and Nationalism
Faculty of Social Sciences