Dr. Arunas Juska is a native of Lithuania currently working as an Associate Professor at the Department of Sociology, East Carolina University. Dr. Juska is a rural sociologists specializing into two areas: agro-food studies with especial emphasis on oilseeds and meat industries in the US and Canada. Most recently he also got actively involved and extensively published on post-socialist transformations in Eastern Europe with the special emphasis on agricultural and rural development. Dr. Juska actively collaborates with Lithuanian academics. Among his recent publications are:

